

PALAIS
DAUN-KINSKY
WIEN

Make a dazzling entrance

A gem of baroque architecture.

Party like a count.

Vienna's most elegant address.
The palace offers the ideal backdrop for opulent celebrations, weddings, christenings, birthdays, award ceremonies, conferences and glittering events.

But don't say just Kinsky to him, whatever you do. The palace is in fact named Daun-Kinsky, after the man that commissioned it: Field Marshal Count Wirich Philipp Laurenz Graf von und zu Daun. He had this opulent baroque palace built between 1713 and 1719 by renowned master architect Lucas von Hildebrandt. Inside, it features eye-catching stucco work by Alberto Camesina and breathtaking frescoes by Carlo Innocenzo Carlone and Marcantonio Chiarini. This isn't a place to walk, it is a place for striding. You don't just climb the stairs – you glide aloft. Guests don't enter, they make an entrance. It is a place to leave your everyday cares behind and immerse yourself in a world of baroque splendour – under the watchful eye of Count Daun who is experiencing an apotheosis in the ceiling paintings. And all of this plays out in the heart of Vienna where Herrengasse meets Freyung.
